

Overseas Voting Reform Proposals

Americans abroad are proud of their citizenship and vigilant in guarding their constitutional right to help elect their President, Vice President and Members of Congress. For most overseas Americans, their right to vote is the primary means available to them to participate in the American democratic process. Civilian voter turnout overseas has increased steadily over the last few years. Over 50% of the local election officials surveyed after the 2006 midterm elections noted increased overseas voter participation compared with 2002. The Federal Voting Assistance Program estimates that overseas voters have accounted for over 3% of the total vote in federal elections since 1996.

The Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act (UOCAVA) of 1986 defines the rights of overseas U.S. citizens to vote in U.S. federal elections, and sets out the parameters for registering and voting by absentee ballot from overseas. UOCAVA was complemented by the Help America Vote Act of 2002 that addresses a plethora of problems in voting domestically and proposes to eliminate some of those faced by overseas absentee voters.

Nevertheless, overseas citizens still face a number of obstacles in casting their votes and having them counted. In the Overseas Vote Foundation 2006 Post Election Voter Survey, 20% of the respondents stated that they had tried to vote but could not do so for many reasons, but largely because they could not submit or receive their registration or balloting material in time.

Proposals to update UOCAVA

We strongly recommend that UOCAVA be amended in light of problems that have been found in the overseas voting process. In particular, we propose the following.

- The name of the federal application form should be changed to “Federal Voter Registration and Ballot Application” (FVRBA). The current name, “Federal Post Card Application” (FPCA), creates much confusion among users.
- States should be prohibited from refusing to accept voter registration and/or Federal Write-in Absentee Ballots for any reason that can disadvantage overseas voters, such as “non-standard” size, shape, weight or color of paper of the application, envelope or ballot (given that such materials are now often downloaded using non-American machines and paper); notary, witness or oath requirements (given the often prohibitive cost of access to notary services outside the United States); delivery of the application or ballot by a method other than the Post Office (to allow for hand delivery, courier or express mail services); or arbitrary requirements that are not necessary to prevent fraud.
- Pre-printed ballot mailing addresses mailed by the States to overseas voters should include “USA” in the address block.
- American citizens who do not meet state residency requirements should be given the right to vote in all states and the District of Columbia at the legal voting residence of their U.S. citizen parent(s). Today, only sixteen states explicitly enable Americans who cannot satisfy state residency requirements to exercise their constitutional right to vote in federal elections.

Additional voting procedure reforms required

The deadline for the receipt of overseas ballots should be uniformly fixed on Election Day, and overseas ballots should be counted simultaneously with domestic ballots, ensuring that overseas votes are taken into account in the announcement of the results of the election. No voted ballots should be required to be received before the official Election Day. In the event of special emergency elections, the period between announcement of the elections and receipt of all ballots should be uniformly fixed at 60 days.

Postmark and date stamp requirements should be eliminated; all dated ballots should be accepted.

Timely expedition of ballots: The lateness of many states in sending out their absentee ballots often makes registration and voting impossible; slow foreign mail systems exacerbate the problem. All states should be required to publish a Federal ballot that can, if necessary, be distributed earlier than a full state ballot. Thirty days should be the minimum interval between transmittal of ballots and the deadline for voted ballots to be received by local election officials. New methods of electronic transmission of electoral materials should be further developed, including the possibility of faxing the federal application form and of downloading ballots from the Internet, to be completed and returned by mail.

The Help America Vote Act (HAVA) is of crucial importance to overseas voters

Voting assistance programs are to be expanded, under HAVA, for absent uniformed services voters. The same should apply to civilian overseas voters.

Statewide voter registration databases are dependent on funding and essential to the constitution of complete, accurate, regularly updated lists of voters and to the generation of statistics which will enable refining procedures in the future. Overseas voters will benefit from faster response to registration and ballot requests, more accurate information, better statistical reporting. All such databases must be fully implemented as quickly as possible.

The single state office should provide information to overseas voters on registration and absentee ballot application procedures. Congress also recommended that this same office accept registration applications, absentee ballot applications, and absentee ballots (including Federal Write-In Absentee Ballots) for the entire state. This recommendation can greatly facilitate and simplify voting from overseas.

The Election Assistance Commission (EAC) is responsible for making recommendations to the President and the Congress about further actions to help overseas voters. We fully support the EAC, call for its full funding and urge Congress to extend its mandate.

Statistical reporting on the number of overseas absentee ballots transmitted and received. We hope the EAC will extend these statistics to the number of registration applications received, the number rejected, the number of ballots requested, the number of ballots rejected and the reasons for any rejection in all cases.

Appropriations requirements: There was no 2005, 2006 or 2007 HAVA appropriation for funding to the states. Although the House Administration Committee continues to ask for the needed appropriations, a shortfall in total HAVA funding of over $800 million remains. We join the National Association of Secretaries of State and the crafters of the Help America Vote Act in calling for its full funding.

Conclusion

Our organizations will continue to work with Congress and the Administration to find appropriate and economically feasible ways to improve the ability of absent uniformed service voters and overseas Americans in the private sector to register and vote absentee in U.S. federal elections.
